God Has a Plan

"You planned evil against me; God planned it for good to bring about the present result—the survival of many people." —Genesis 50:20

Ever felt the bad things in your life make no sense? Ever feel like it was never a part of God's plan for you to go through those things? As a younger girl, I went through a lot of things that most people shouldn't and haven't gone through. I had a pretty rough past. My biological parents neglected me by not providing proper care that a child needs. My biological sister's dad abused me. My actual biological dad would smoke drugs right in front of me. I could say that God had me experience those things because I was a bad child, but that wouldn't be true. God had me go through those life experiences because He wanted me to take them and help those who are going through similar situations and help them find Jesus. I can use my past to further God's kingdom. I can use all those things that happened to me, things that no child should have to go through, to bring someone else to Christ. The verse above tells us that we go through bad things because God has a purpose for them—for good! God will not give you something you cannot use as a testimony. The next time you are going through something difficult, just remember that God is actually blessing you. He's going to want you to use your struggles to help someone else in need. God is the most loving person in the universe, and He would not let trouble pass your way if it wasn't for a better purpose.
